Question:

We can choose the character set when installing DBMaker, does it means we also choose the message file character set? (From DBMR 1805)

Answer:

There are two steps to choose language and character set during installing DBMaker.

The character set only decides data stored format, and is not related with DBMaker message file.

At very beginning of installing DBMaker, you can select language code; it affects that DBMaker use which language to display and return DBMaker message in GUI tools and other tools.

The secondary choice of language is to decide use which character set to save data in DBMaker by default.
